The Pebble

Sunday September 25, 2022

Ordinary 26

Almighty God, you alone are our true
judge,
for you know what we are,
you know what we should be,
and with you there is mercy.
Give us feeling for what is right;
set us on fire to see that right is done.
AMEN.

From the Vicar

My first tulips have appeared. They're yellow and I nearly missed them amongst the daffodils. Tulips originated from Turkey and enjoy cold winters, and hot dry summers. The dry summers keep the bulb from rotting. You possibly won't see the tulips in the garden because I'll pick them and have them in the house. I want my tulips to grow fat and healthy and acclimatise to Dunedin's climate.

Not everything thrives where it's first planted but with a bit of careful attention and knowledge growth can occur. God has placed us together in St Peter's to care for each other and observe when things might be getting difficult. The congregation can boast of having vast experience, so as we chat at morning tea or sit quietly in the pews, let's listen carefully and share our combined wisdom to enable others to bloom.
