The Pebble

November 12, 2023

Remembrance Sunday

For I am convinced that neither death nor life,
neither angels nor demons,
neither the present nor the future,
nor any powers,
neither height nor depth,
nor anything else in all creation,
will be able to separate us from the love of God that is in Christ Jesus our Lord.
Romans Chapter 8

WELCOME

to all who are sharing in worship with us today and all those who read the Pebble on-line.

From the Vicar.

I find Remembrance Day and ANZAC Day challenging. On one hand we are asked to remember those who have been in military engagements but also pray for peace. While these two activities aren't mutually exclusive. These dates, are but a few that identify the ongoing need to recognise that peace across the world remains elusive., despite the billions of dollars spent and millions of lives destroyed.

As a young person I remember vividly the horror and despair of the Vietnam War, being daily televised into our lounge room. My brother visited Cambodia last month and paid respect to a Cambodian friend and his family, who were butchered by the Pol Pot regime in 1975. War isn't a distant entertainment but a global tragedy that stems from distrust, greed, pain and lack of forgiveness. Today I pray for those how have hurt my family and friends, knowing that this is the only way forward.

The Collect for Remembrance Sunday

God, our refuge and strength, bring near the day when wars shall cease and poverty and pain shall end, that the earth may know the peace of heaven through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.
